Second incident this year

Two prisoners try county jail escape

A jail escape attempt by two prisoners held in the felony section of the Fayette County jail was thwarted by law enforcement officers early Wednesday. It was the second unsuccessful jail escape bid at the county jail in the past year.

Fayette County Sheriff Donald L. Thompson said Willie Ralph Gaston, 20, of Talladega, Ala., and William O'Keefe, 31, of Cleveland, Ohio, unsuccessfully attempted to escape from the county jail by jamming the locking divide on a cell block door at approximately 6:30 a.m. Wednesday.

Sheriff Thompson reported that Thomas Rodgers, a jailer-dispatcher with the Fayette County Sheriff's Department, had placed cleaning equipment inside the cell block for cleaning and when he returned and unlocked a security door, he was rushed by Gaston and O'Keefe.

Rodgers was able to pull a safety door closed and summon Sheriff's Deputy Charles Wise, who was in the office portion of the sheriff's headquarters at the time, and three Washington C.H. police officers for assistance.

Responding from the Washington C.H. Police Department were Specialist Larry Hott, Sgt. Robert Massie and Patrolman Steve Jennings. "Luckily, Deputy Wise was present and the quick response by Specialist Hott, Sgt. Massie and Patrolman Jennings prevented the incident from becoming a more serious one," said Sheriff Thompson.

Gaston, also known as Willie Sutters, was being held in the county jail on charges of armed robbery, possession of a firearm.

An escapee from an Alabama state prison, Gaston allegedly robbed a Fayette County service station attendant and then law enforcement officers on an hour-long, high-speed chase in late March.

Gaston was being held under $50,000 bond on the charges of armed robbery and possession of a firearm and was awaiting trial in Fayette County Common Pleas Court. He was bound over to the grand jury following a preliminary hearing in Washington C.H. Municipal Court.

O'Keefe was being held in the Fayette County jail on a county grand jury indictment for grand theft.

Sheriff Thompson was scheduled to meet Wednesday with John H. Roszmann, assistant Fayette County prosecuting attorney, concerning the filing of attempted jail escape charges against Gaston and O'Keefe.

The attempt by Gaston and O'Keefe marked the second time this year that county jail inmates have attempted to escape from the facility's felony section while only one jailer-dispatcher was on duty.

Two inmates were convicted in the last incident and are presently serving terms in state prisons.

Following Wednesday morning's escape attempt in which only one officer was on duty, Sheriff Thompson has taken steps to relieve the department's lack of manpower situation.

He said the sheriff's department is accepting applications this week for the position of communications officer. The position will be open to men and women who will handle radio, telephone, teletype and public communications.

Sheriff Thompson pointed out that the persons will not be jail corrections officers and will work only in the communications field.

Requirements include being at least 18 years of age, a high school graduate, in good physical and mental condition and being able to successfully complete a thorough background investigation.

One of the openings, the county sheriff said, will be for a standard 40-hour week and the other will be on a part-time basis. Thompson said persons interested should contact the sheriff's office during regular business hours.

necessary and are to be located in the first-floor bar and dining room area."

Southworth said a final letter was mailed Nov. 16, 1976, again addressed to Schilling and noted that a final inspection of the building had been made and "Our field representative's report states that the above project was constructed in substantial compliance with the minimum fire safety regulations."

"That indicates they did carry out (corrections of) those four deficiencies," Southworth added. "The letter could not have gone out unless we had evidence or a report to indicate those deficiencies had been corrected."

The fire marshal said it isn't known yet if the exit lights continued to function during the fire.

"We had some 22 self-contained emergency exit units in that building," he said. "It's always possible there could have been a mechanical failure, but there's no way that 22 of them can malfunction."

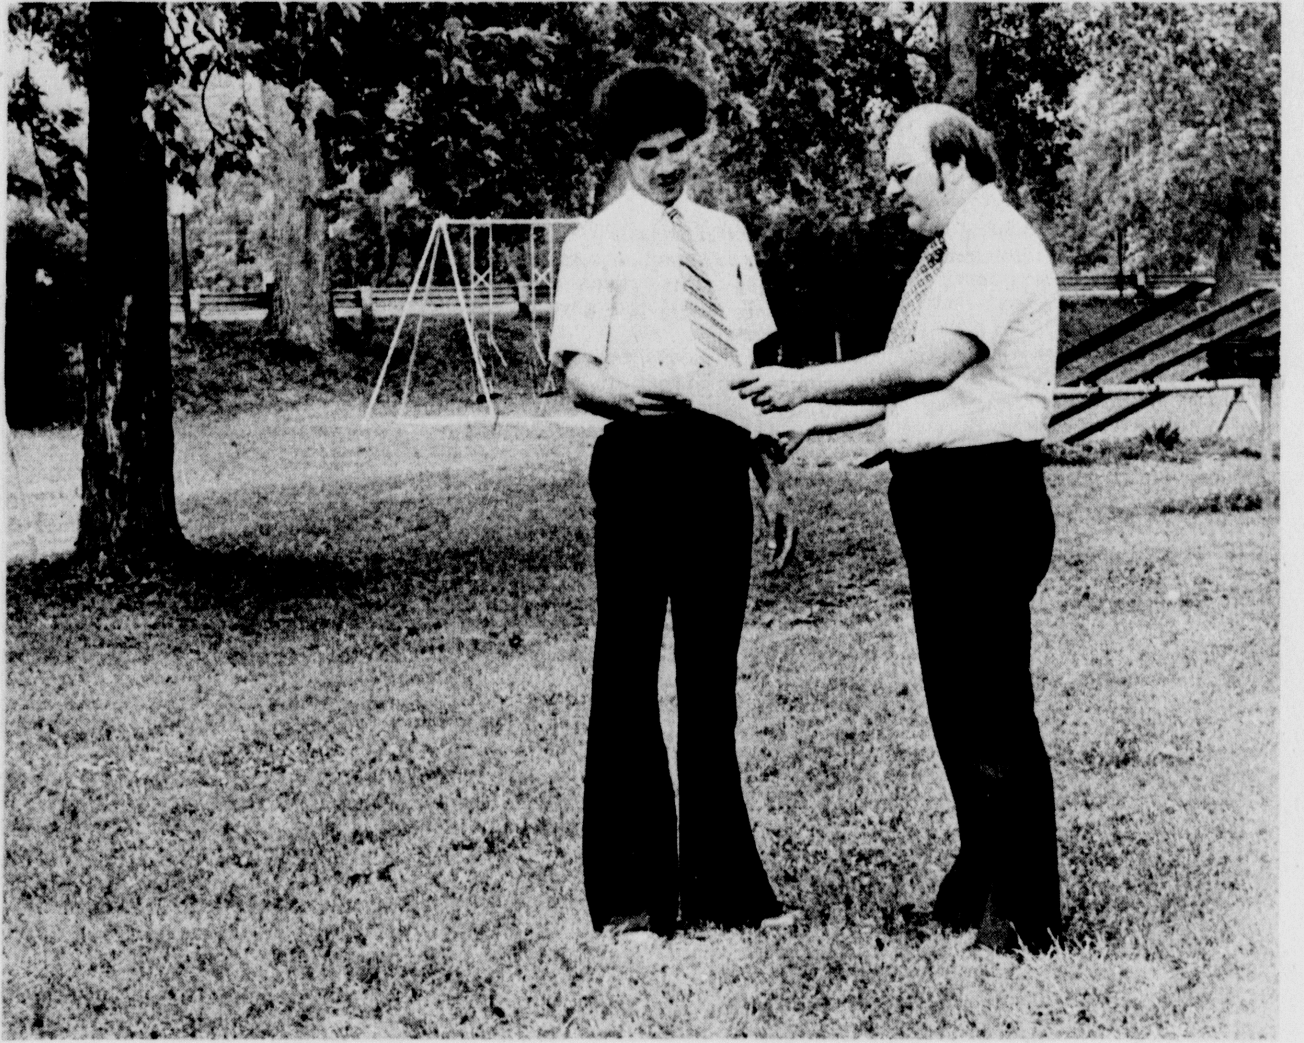

"There is no evidence whatsoever that arson was involved" in the fire, Southworth said, yet the cause remains under investigation. When asked if a faulty generator is still a prime suspect as the cause of the blaze, Southworth replied, "No, I don't think so."

"They haven't pinpointed a prime suspect yet. I'm sure there are opinions now, but they are still just opinions," Southworth added. He said officials are not in agreement that the fire started in the basement, which had been generally reported over the weekend.

Gov. Julian Carroll indicated the investigation of the fire may be completed sometime next week.

Meanwhile, the state will arrange a memorial service for the victims of last weekend's fire, Carroll said.

Carroll directed his staff to arrange a time and place for the service and to notify the families of the victims.

MAKING PLANS — J.A. (Tony) Pack, right, the new director of the Washington C.H. Area Community Education program, and Marty Jones, assistant director, check over plans for the Community Education-sponsored summer recreation program at Eyman Park. A number of summer recreation activities have been planned including a summer adult basketball league and the annual tennis tournament. Instructors for Community Education classes are also being sought.

Demos flex muscles

Voter legislation vetoes overridden

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Over three line item vetoes by GOP Gov. James A. Rhodes, Democratic majorities have enacted into law the full provisions of their voter registration bill, including sign ups at the polls on election day.

The Senate overrode the vetoes Tuesday, shortly after the lawmakers returned from their long holiday weekend. The House followed suit a few hours later. As expected, votes followed party lines in both chambers.

In other major action, Senate Democrats voted out of subcommittee another of their party's top priority measures. It affects about 510,000 public employees—repealing the strike-prohibiting Ferguson Act and permitting them to bargain collectively with their employers, under law, for the first time.

Senate leaders said they expect the bargaining bill to be recommended later this week by the full commerce and labor committee, and that it will come up for a Senate floor vote next week.

That measure, as well as the voter registration bill, are being pushed strongly by organized labor groups in Ohio whose representatives were on hand Tuesday to watch the legislation progress.

Rhodes, acting during the Memorial Day weekend, vetoed not only the instant registration section of the election bill, but others which would permit motor vehicle deputy registrars to sign up voters, and make registration permanent if a voter remained at his same address.

Senate and House arguments over whether the governor's vetoes should be sustained were the same as those heard when the legislation first was debated in the two chambers.

Minority Republicans, as did Rhodes, said the bill opens the way for voter fraud. Democrats maintained this was not true, and has not been the case in Minnesota and Wisconsin, which have had the same law for the past several years.

In any case, it may be some time before Ohioans know when and if the law will get its first test.

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown said Tuesday he plans to split the bill with regard to effective dates—allowing its financial appropriation to take immediate effect, as the law requires—but making other sections await the normally required 90 days.

Brown's maneuver, Republicans believe, will enable them to collect signatures for a statewide vote on the bill. Appropriations bills are not subject to the referendum process. Democrats, apparently not anticipating the maneuver by Brown, added a $2.3 million appropriation in a House floor amendment, in an effort to preclude a referendum by making the proposal an appropriations measure.

The office of House Speaker Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, said Tuesday that his legal advisers are investigating the possibility of a court action forcing Brown to place immediate dates on the entire package. Riffe claims Brown may have overstepped his authority.

Supper club fire cause sought

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The Beverly Hills Supper Club at Southgate, Ky., where 158 people lost their lives in a fire Saturday, was in "substantial compliance with the minimum fire safety regulations," State Fire Marshal Warren Southworth said Tuesday night.

Beverly Hills owner Richard Schilling was notified by letter March 3, 1976 that Deputy Fire Marshal John Bramlage had discovered four deficiencies at the nightclub during an inspection Feb. 5, 1976, Southworth said.

Schilling was ordered in the letter to install an approved-type emergency lighting unit at certain locations in the nightclub or repair an emergency standby generator to insure lighting facilities in case of a power failure. The Beverly Hills owner was also told to install an additional, approved-type exit sign over the bar exit door, install a 34-inch, solid-core door and closures to storage areas at the north end of building, and have boilers inspected by the Boiler Bureau of the State Fire Marshal's office.

"The next correspondence was on Nov. 15, 1976," Southworth said, in which approval of "the recent additions" to the nightclub was noted. The same letter contained a reminder that "two additional exit signs are

Saturday night and were injured.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Raine suffered smoke inhalation and are listed in "fair" condition at two separate northern Kentucky hospitals.

Raine, a district sales manager for the Mac Tools, Inc., plant, is a patient in St. Luke's Hospital in Newport Ky., and his wife, Sue, is a patient in Booth Hospital, Covington, Ky.

Mrs. Raine is the daughter of Paul W. Elrod, president of Mac Tools, Inc.

According to officials at the Mac Tools, Inc. plant, the Raines "are being moved in and out of intensive care units, depending upon their condition." They are not permitted to receive flowers nor visitors.

The two local couples were attending singer John Davidson's show in the Cabaret Room of the club when the fire started.

Funeral arrangements for Daly are still pending.

Project to be completed this month

Courthouse repair work looms

A sidewalk repair project on the Fayette County Courthouse grounds should be completed sometime this month, according to the county board of commissioners.

On Tuesday, the commissioners accepted a $19,834 bid from the Southern Ohio Concrete Floors Co. of Washington C.H. to repair the sidewalks, steps and curbs around the 90-year-old courthouse. A slightly higher bid from the WKW Construction Co. of Washington C.H. was rejected by the commissioners.

Work is to be completed during the month of June.

Money for the sidewalk repair will come from federal anti-recession funds granted to the county last fall and this past winter.

So far, $23,927 in federal funds have been granted for county programs such as the repair and renovation of county property.

The anti-recession funds were appropriated by the federal government in an effort to lower the unemployment rate throughout the nation. Funds are allocated to communities which have at least a six per cent unemployment rate.

The commissioners also plan to use some of the funds for the resurfacing of county-owned parking lots on Fayette Street across from the Washington C.H. City Building, and next to the rear of the Courthouse.

However, the commissioners received only one bid for the parking lot work and it was rejected because it exceeded the county engineer's estimate for repair work. The bid was submitted by the L.P. Cavett Co. of Lockland.

The commissioners have authorized Donald Conley, the county engineer, to readvertise for bids on the parking lot project. Bids are to be submitted by June 13.

THE COMMISSIONERS also granted the Union Township Trustees request for assistance in road repair.

Roads approved by the commissioners for county assistance are Mayswood Court, Meadow Drive, Leslie Trace and North Bend Court. The cost for the repair work will be $3,132 if the county engineer's estimate holds true.

Union Township will pay the $3,132, which will go for material. The county engineer's department will supply work crews and equipment.

County commissioner Laurence A. (Bucky) Dumford said the county is obligated by law to consider road repair requests from townships. He said the other 10 county townships are expected to make similar requests for aid later this year.

The commissioners also approved the straightening of a curve on the Miami Trace Road, just north of U.S. 22-W.

The S-shaped curve will be straightened by the county engineer's department. Land owned by Bill Creamer and a Chillicothe resident was donated to the county so the hazardous curves could be removed.

IN OTHER action, the commissioners:

—Considered a state parks and recreation department request to abandon sections of two township roads near Deer Creek State Park;

—Announced that the Fayette County Planning Commissioners approved a plat for the Buckeye-Highland Estates subdivision near the Buckeye Hills Country Club. The plan calls for the construction of approximately 12 homes along Lyons Road;

—Renewed a $2,410 note for the improvement of the Kellough Ditch. The ditch runs from Ohio 41-N across the Inskeep Road into Paint Creek; and —Reappointed Taylor Groff to a five-year term on the county planning commission.

Viking probe ends; still no certainty about life on Mars

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The $50 million Viking search for life on Mars is over, and scientists, while still puzzled, are generally pessimistic about the results from the two robot spacecraft.

"The majority opinion is that they have not detected life in the samples of Martian soil they tested," a spokesman for Jet Propulsion Laboratory said Tuesday.

Viking 1 set down on the red planet last July 13, and Viking 2 landed September 3. The Viking landers scooped up soil from the Martian surface and performed experiments until Tuesday, when their automated laboratories were switched off from Earth.

They had run out of the nutrient liquids and helium gas needed to conduct the biology experiments.

However, the landers and two orbiters circling the planet continue to carry out other scientific observations, gathering information on Martian winds and temperatures.

The landers carried out all the tasks they were designed for — and some they weren't, including some self-repair.

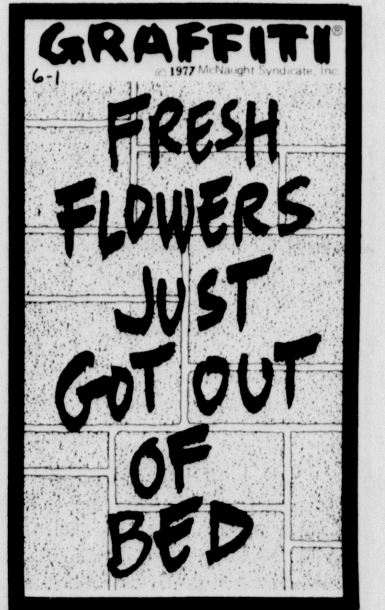

Results beamed back to Earth at first led scientists to think they might have found evidence of life. But later experiments failed to clear up the ambiguous results, and scientists developed theories of how the results could have been produced by a unique chemical — rather than biological — process in the soil.

Dr. Don DeVincenzi, who heads NASA's Division of Extraterrestrial Biology, said Tuesday that while the chemical theories "have considerable merit," they don't fit all the results from Viking.

The Viking results could have been produced by a nonliving process triggered by "eons of fairly intense radiation (from the sun) interacting with the surface material and the atmosphere," said DeVincenzi.

But the hypotheses are valid only if it can be shown that a certain iron compound is present in the Martian surface, he said, and Viking has no way of confirming the existence of the compound.

"I don't think that the findings negate the possibility of life on Mars," he said. "The problem is that Viking has only searched about 160 square feet of the planet, and we're trying to extrapolate the results to the whole planet."

Mrs. Carter visits with Costa Ricans

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP) — Rosalynn Carter made a hit with Costa Rica's president and got some advice on her husband's human rights campaign from the Central American nation's foreign minister.

Having Mrs. Carter in the country was "exactly the same as if President Carter had arrived and made personal contact," said President Daniel Oduber at a reception Tuesday night following nearly two hours of talks with the U.S. First Lady.

"We felt immediately at home with her," said Oduber. "She's very natural and goes directly to the point. She's very well informed."

Foreign Minister Gonzalo Facio said he suggested to Mrs. Carter that her husband advance his human rights policy by "inducement" rather than "imposition."

Facio said he proposed that the United States, instead of punishing countries that violate human rights, show "commercial preference to those that respect the issue."

Facio also said they discussed U.S. support for establishment of a United Nations high commissioner of human rights which Costa Rica has been advocating for the last 12 years.

The reception, attended by about 200 officials, diplomats and their wives, was held at the National Theater after a concert by the National Youth Symphony, which recently received a $1 million loan from a U.S. bank to buy instruments.

"Wait till I tell Jimmy," said Mrs. Carter as she congratulated the young musicians on their performance and invited them to visit Washington and perform at the White House. She wore a long green dress with a purple orchid, Costa Rica's national flower, pinned to the shoulder.

Mrs. Carter has been studying Spanish since February and spoke briefly in that language on her arrival Tuesday afternoon from Jamaica, where her seven-nation, 13-day tour of Latin America began Monday. She also tried out her conversational Spanish haltingly during the reception.

I.W. Abel steps down

PITTSBURGH (AP) — I.W. Abel, who helped forge the United Steelworkers into one of the nation's most powerful labor unions, is setting aside the tools of his trade.

After 12 years as president of the 1.4 million-member USW, Abel retires today at age 68 and will be succeeded in formal ceremonies by Lloyd McBride, the 60-year-old director of the St. Louis district.

"Looking back, you have to conclude we've brought big changes in this man's world," he said, recalling his 40 years in the labor movement.

Under Abel's stewardship the union has prospered. When he took over in 1965, the average steelworker was making $5,918 per year. The latest contract will boost that figure to $18,304 by 1980.

Abel also inherited a stagnant union that was losing people and had a general net worth of only $21 million.

But during his tenure about 400,000 members were added, making the USW the nation's largest industrial union with more than 5,000 locals. The union also increased its worth to nearly $130 million, including $87 million in a strike fund established in 1968.

Abel is fond of pointing out that all that and more was accomplished without the membership spending a single minute "on the bricks" in a nationwide strike.

His belief that strikes can be destructive for both companies and the union led Abel to push for a revolutionary "no-strike" agreement that the USW signed with 10 major steel companies in 1973.

Alcohol use linked to birth defects

WASHINGTON (AP) — The more alcohol a pregnant woman drinks, the more she risks giving birth to a deformed baby, the government is warning.

A federal alcohol abuse agency says women who consume an average of six drinks a day during pregnancy run a "decided risk" of having deformed or retarded children. Six drinks contain the equivalent of three ounces of grain alcohol.

Pregnant women who take from two to six drinks daily have a lesser chance of giving birth to babies with such problems, and studies show that pregnant women who consume less than two drinks a day pose little threat to their offspring, a government spokesman said.

The National Institute of Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism is delivering its "health caution" at a news conference today. A spokesman said Dr. Ernest Noble, agency director, would recommend that pregnant women and women of childbearing age discuss their drinking habits with their doctors.

The spokesman said there are more than 100 studies which show a link between a pregnant woman's alcoholic intake and malformed or retarded infants.

Meanwhile, the National Council on Alcoholism said Tuesday it will launch a nationwide campaign warning women of the dangers of drinking during pregnancy.

Council officials said at a news conference in New York City "a safe decision" for a pregnant woman would be to abstain from alcohol.

"Although it is not definitively known whether social drinking produces abnormalities in infants, alcoholism researchers are sufficiently convinced that excessive drinking during pregnancy incurs a high risk of fetal malformation and mental retardation," they said.

Dr. Joseph Cruse of the University of Southern California said that of 3.1 million live births expected in the United States next year, 250,000 babies are likely to be born with congenital abnormalities. He said 6,000 such cases may be due to what is called "fetal alcohol syndrome."

Symptoms of fetal alcohol syndrome include growth retardation, especially of the head, as well as heart defects and congenital eye and ear problems.

Cruse put the risk of fetal alcohol syndrome defects at 10 per cent if a woman drinks between two and four ounces of hard liquor daily.

The rate could go as high as 74 per cent for those who drink 10 ounces a day, he said.

He recommended that women who are pregnant not drink at all.

Release pay data for postmasters

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Postal Service, which increased salaries for its top officials without issuing a press release, is upsetting postmasters by going public with their pay.

"If a postmaster's salary is published, people in the town who make less money are bound to be resentful," a spokesman for postmasters says.

The public relations department of the mail agency, sending out news releases and letters to the editor, is disclosing information about area post offices, including the pay of the local postmaster.

As an example, a letter by Postal Service spokesman D. Jamison Cain, published in the Beckley, W. Va., Post-Herald and Register, informed readers that the Coal City, W. Va., postmaster earns $19,044 in salary and benefits.

Frank Miklozek, executive director of the National Association of Postmasters, charged Tuesday the Postal Service policy is designed to create resentment against postmasters. He said the move is part of a campaign to eliminate many postmaster jobs.

But Cain said the public relations effort is an attempt "to show how important the Postal Service is to the local economy."

Credit identity rule takes effect today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government believes a woman should have a credit identity of her own.

A Federal Reserve Board rule taking effect today requires credit companies to meet requests to record information about a married couple in the name of both the wife and the husband.

The rule is designed to aid women who become divorced, widowed or who want their own accounts.

"If a woman gets divorced or widowed and tries to open a new account, it's very, very hard to do," a Federal Reserve Board spokesman said. "She has no credit identity. So this

Horses destroyed

JASPER, Ind. (AP) — Fire destroyed a barn and 23 registered American Saddle Bred horses on the Alvin C. Ruxer farm near Jasper Tuesday night.

Ruxer estimated losses at $500,000. Two employees suffered burns on their arms attempting to save horses and were taken to the Jasper hospital for treatment.

I want to thank all my wonderful relatives, friends and neighbors for the flowers, cards, prayers, and gifts during my stay in the hospital and since returning home.

A special thanks to the ministers and Dr. Payton.

Court kills housing ordinance

EAST CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — "John, go inside and put the baby's pants on," Inez Moore told her grandson while she sat on her porch, talking about her vindication in the U.S. Supreme Court.

The 64-year-old grandmother had just learned the court had upheld her fight against an East Cleveland housing ordinance which prohibited her from having both her two sons and two grandchildren living with her.

"I've always felt my family should be with me," she said, while still paying attention to the crying baby inside her house. She was babysitting for a neighbor's son. "This is my blood kin. No law is going to tear my family apart. It's not that I'm living with strangers."

The 5-4 decision culminated Mrs. Moore's fight to keep her family together despite charges from city officials that such living arrangements would lead to overcrowdedness, burden the city's school system, and cause traffic and financial problems.

It was hot outside and Mrs. Moore's son Dale brought out paper cups with ice and filled them with a soft drink. Mrs. Moore was wearing a pink pant suit with white polka dots. Her gray hair was in braids. She is a frail and arthritic woman with intense eyes.

"I feel pretty good," she said calmly, her old hands clutching an Associated Press story on the court decision.

Officials of East Cleveland, a once-predominantly white Cleveland suburb which is now predominantly black, disagreed with Mrs. Moore's definition of a family because of a 1966 housing ordinance aimed at preventing overcrowdedness and "border jumping" by families who wanted to illegally enroll their children in the suburban school district.

night and did not return the vehicle. Johnson told Washington C.H. police officers that he had just gotten off work and had his cycle running at the Clark Oil Co. service station on W. Court St., when Penwell drove onto the lot for gasoline.

Penwell reportedly asked Johnson if he could ride the motorcycle around the service station lot. After he got on the motorcycle, Penwell drove onto Court Street toward the downtown business district. He then reportedly drove by the service station and headed out Leesburg Avenue at a high rate of speed.

A woman in Penwell's car then drove off the lot and Johnson reported that Penwell never returned.

City police officers recovered the motorcycle at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday. It was parked in the 200 block of Mulberry Street.

Washington C.H. police officers are investigating the theft of license plates from a trailer parked at Phillips Rent-All lot, 276 W. Oakland Ave. The plates were taken sometime during the weekend.

Officers are also investigating the theft of a bicycle from the Dorothy A. Bellar residence, 1022 Rawlings St. The bicycle which was equipped with training wheels was taken sometime Tuesday.

City police are also investigating a destruction of property report. Paula D. Lipscomb reported that the windshield on a car owned by Betty Taylor of 412 Gibbs Ave. was cracked sometime during the weekend. The windshield was valued at $75. The car was parked at the Lipscomb residence, 1004 S. North St.

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department is also investigating a destruction of property incident which occurred over the weekend at a new housing site near the intersection of Ohio 41-N and Trace Court. Two bath units, which were valued at $500, were damaged. The units were being installed by the J&H Construction Co. of Bloomingburg.

Find man's bloody car

CLEVELAND (AP) — A blood-stained car that had last been driven by Henry "Boom Boom" Grecco of Cleveland was found Tuesday by Summit County Sheriff's deputies.

Greco is being sought because of his alleged association with a reputed Cleveland racketeer who was killed recently in gangland fashion.

Summit County law officials said the car was found in Twinsburg Township. The key was in the ignition and blood was on the passenger's side of the front seat.

Cleveland police had been seeking Grecco, missing since Sunday, because of his association with John Nardi, a Cleveland Teamsters official who was reputed to be a chieftain in organized crime. Nardi died in a car bombing.

Grecco is under a federal indictment in Miami, Fla., on charges of gun-running. He was indicted in March along with Morton A. Franklin of Lyndhurst, Ohio and Dominick E. Bartone of Macedonia, Ohio on charges of conspiring to sell 1,000 machineguns, 18 automatic weapons and "other weapons of war" to undercover law agents. His trial in Miami is to begin in July.

PUBLIC NOTICE

FINAL AMENDMENT TO THE FINAL OHIO COMPREHENSIVE ANNUAL SERVICES PLAN (CASP) — (2ND PROGRAM YEAR)

The Ohio Department of Public Welfare, the designated state agency for administering Title XX of the Social Security Act, has amended the CASP for the program year July 1, 1976 through June 30, 1977.

The final amendments are as follows:

- (1) The definition of Home Management Service is adjusted in order to incorporate the provision of utility payments, such utility payments to mean payments for heating fuel of any type and electric bills, incurred by specified recipients due to the severe sub-zero winter weather and increased utility costs.

Home Management has been a mandatory service for Aid to Dependent Children (ADC) recipients. The addition to the service of payment of utility costs incurred may be available to only ADC, General Relief (GR), and Supplemental Security Income (SSI) recipients. The service may be provided in any geographical area, 88 counties, for Goals I, II, and III of the Title XX program, with the objective of maintaining the home living routine in the face of severe winter weather conditions.

The inclusion of the change may be available to a maximum of approximately 300,000 persons at an estimated expenditure of $24 Million of combined Federal, State and local funds within the Title XX allocation to Ohio. The inclusion, however, is based upon the availability of appropriate matching funds either at the State or local county level. Therefore, this service may be provided to eligible persons contingent upon appropriate funds available for this service in each county.

The effective date of this amendment is June 1, 1977, with the service of Home Management as defined, retroactive to February 1, 1977.

- (2) The definition for Day Care For Children has been modified to include the option of authorizing county welfare departments to utilize supplementary 100% Title XX funds for the purpose of hiring welfare recipients in day care facilities. This amendment is made in accordance with PL 94-401 and Federal Regulations issued January 31, 1977.

The effective date of this amendment is June 1, 1977, with the Service of Day Care for Children as defined, retroactive to September 7, 1976.

Explanation of Response to Public Comments:

The Ohio Department of Public Welfare received over 180 written public comments related to the proposed amendments. The majority of comments favored the addition to the service definition of Home Management of payment of utility costs. Written comments favoring the provision of hiring welfare recipients in day care facilities were received. Passage of Amended House Bill 450 in the 112th General Assembly on May 5, 1977, requires these amendments to the Final CASP (2nd Program Year).

Explanation of Differences Between Proposed and Final Amendments:

The primary difference between the proposed and final amendments relates to the amendment of payment of utility costs, which has been expanded based upon Amended House Bill 450. The final amendment is optional at the local county level, dependent upon availability of appropriate matching funds. Therefore, each county, subject to the availability of appropriate funds, may provide this service to eligible persons as identified in the amendment.

In accordance with Federal directives, the provision for grants to providers to hire welfare recipients in day care facilities is incorporated into the definition of Day Care for Children. The retroactive date of this amendment is changed from 10-1-76 to on or after 9-7-76 based upon Amended House Bill 450.

How much for intelligence?

It would be of no great consequence to make public the total budget of the nation's intelligence community, as the Senate Intelligence Committee has recommended. Unofficial estimates range from four to eight billion dollars. Whatever the actual figure may be, once it was revealed the public would not know much more than it did before.

Even so, the Senate panel's recommendation is sound. Disclosure of the total amount spent to finance the Central Intelligence Agency and other groups involved in intelligence work would at least provide some idea of the extent of such activities. This might in turn lead to public and congressional pressures for more careful scrutiny of intelligence operations.

Some of these operations, brought to light in recent years by the press and by congressional inquiries, have plainly run counter to most Americans' perception of what our government should be involved in. The CIA, in particular, has abused its powers at home and engaged in highly questionable activities abroad.

Disclosure of the overall total will tell us nothing specific about what is going on. This figure will nevertheless offer modest leverage for raising broad questions about how the money is being spent.

It is argued by some that the disclosure might also help other countries to draw conclusions about U.S. intelligence activities. This notion carries so little weight that the executive branch raises no objection to making the overall figure public. Congress may balk; the vote will be close. But in our judgment the long-range public interest would best be served by acceptance of the Senate Intelligence Committee's recommendation.

THESE DAYS...By John Chamberlain

Rationality now possible

Gen. William C. Westmoreland, who was forced by President Lyndon Johnson to pursue a purely defensive strategy in Vietnam that hogtied the military and blew our chances of victory, has been touring the college campuses.

The atmosphere, he finds, is 180 degrees at variance with what he encountered in 1972, when he could not appear on a college platform without risking a barrage of tomatoes and rotten eggs thrown on pre-arranged signals with TV cameras waiting to put the demeaning show on national television. The students today, he says, are much more conservative than their professors, many of whom got their academic training when the anti-war movement was the "in" thing.

The general finds it possible, at last, to conduct a meaningful dialogue with students about the whole Vietnam experience. Some of them still have to be convinced that the war was not an ignoble episode in U.S. history, but what has been happening in Indochina since the North Vietnamese broke their word and took over in the South is giving rise to sober second thoughts.

Judged by what is happening now in Indochina, the U.S. no longer looks like a brutal imperialist invader. In Cambodia, one-eighth of the population has been liquidated by the Communist Khmer Rouge. Firing squads have been busy in supposedly neutral Laos. Hundreds of thousands in South Vietnam have been herded into "reeducation camps", and many of them have died. Even the flimsiest of boats are used by desperate South Vietnamese who have been trying to escape by sea.

As Gen. Westmoreland tells the students, human rights are now nonexistent throughout the whole of Indochina. He gets little argument even from the followers of Jane Fonda or Ramsey Clark, who were once convinced of the purity of North Vietnamese motives. The truth is that many of the anti-war crowd are now ashamed of what their old North Vietnamese "heroes" have been doing.

The time is now propitious for a reassessment of our whole Vietnamese venture. Both in his book and in his speeches Gen. Westmoreland has been restoring some true perspectives. We got ourselves "morally locked" in Vietnam when President Kennedy, in a fit of misguided zeal, approved the overthrow of President Diem. If it hadn't been for our involvement in South Vietnamese political affairs we could have gracefully withdrawn in view of the country's obvious lack of unity.

Once committed to staying the course in Vietnam, we made a whole series of unfortunate decisions. President Johnson, who made a mistake when he retained Kennedy's advisers, hobbled himself by announcing that we would not broaden the war. He did permit bombing of war-related targets in the North, but it was, in Westmoreland's words, "off and on — a thermometer of political pressure at home."

The enemy, says Westmoreland, "got a message, not of resolve and strength but of political insecurity and weakness." When civil disobedience became the mode on the campuses, the leaders in Hanoi "foresaw that they could win the war politically in Washington as they had done against the French in Paris in 1954."

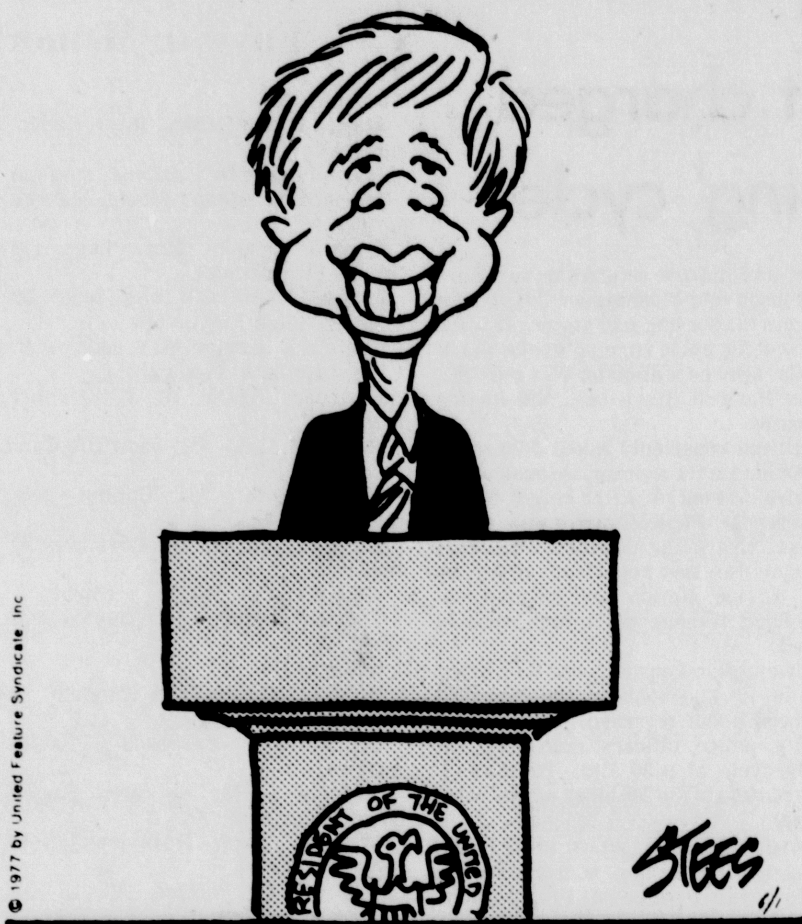

It wasn't until Richard Nixon put the pressure on the North Vietnamese by invading their Cambodian bases, and by making repeated B-52 strikes in the North that the enemy decided to negotiate seriously. The resulting Paris accord might have worked if Watergate had not intervened and if Congress had seen fit to give the South Vietnamese enough material aid to put bullets into their rifles and to keep their planes in the air.

Gen. Westmoreland draws several conclusions from his well-taken corrections of history. One: If we return to the draft, the college students should not be deferred to become guilt-ridden escapees from a national commitment. Two: When political leaders commit us to a war, the military voice should not acquiesce to unsound military decisions. Three: We must be leery of undeclared wars. Four: When men's lives are at stake, the media must show a more convincing sense of responsibility.

Egg prices show drop

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer egg prices are down from their winter peaks, but will start rising again later this year, Agriculture Department analysts say.

Egg production dropped during the severe cold of last winter but now is edging up, resulting in lower prices, the department's Outlook and Situation Board says. Prices "will strengthen seasonally" by next fall but probably will not match last year's levels, officials said.

"MR. SPEAKER, AND CONGRESSIONAL TROUBLEMAKERS---"

Byrd finds fiddle services in demand

WASHINGTON (AP) — As the most accomplished country fiddler in the U.S. Senate, Robert C. Byrd finds that his services are much in demand. But would the Democratic majority leader play at a Republican fund-raising dinner?

It could happen. First the Republicans and then the Democrats held big fund-raising dinners in Washington in recent weeks. The day before the Democratic dinner, Byrd mentioned on the Senate floor that he "may be asked to play a tune or two on my violin."

Then he added, "I do not know why I wasn't asked to attend last Thursday's function (the GOP dinner) to play my violin. It is a nonpartisan violin. It knows no political party. It plays just as well for Republican ears as it does for Democratic hearts."

To which Sen. Howard H. Baker, R-Tenn., the minority leader, replied, "I envy the majority leader his great talent... and I assure him that on the next Republican occasion we will solicit his aid and assistance in regaling our audience with his renditions."

The next day, hours before the Democratic dinner, Baker offered one final comment: "I hope my Democratic colleagues tonight, as they watch the performance of the distinguished majority leader, are not reminded that he is fiddling while the party burns."

This bit of mind-boggling information comes from Sen. Charles Mathias, R-Md.: the federal government prints more than 11 billion forms a year and more than 50 are filled out each year for every man, woman and child in the country.

He adds that Congress has passed 9,000 laws that require reports of some sort.

And where did Mathias get his information? From a Senate subcommittee that studied the problem of the mass of paper generated by the government and then issued a 2,200-page report.

Ohio University, although not chartered until 1804, was first conceived in 1786 when founders of the Ohio Company met in the Bunch of Grapes Tavern in Boston, Mass., and discussed the future founding of a university in the West which would be like Yale. When the company's plans were completed two townships were set aside along the Hocking River, now the Hocking, for a campus and its support in Athens County.—AP

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Send envelope and she'll return favor

DEAR ABBY: I'm half-crazy trying to find the recipe for your fabulous "can't fail" cheesecake. I cut it out of your column nine years ago, and whenever I've made it, I got raves. I never told anyone where it came from and never gave it out, and now I've lost it. Maybe God is punishing me for my selfishness. If I'd given it to just one friend, I could call her and get it back. Will you please send me another one?

"JUST DESSERTS" IN N.J.
DEAR JUST: Your letter gives me an ideal opportunity to say something I've been wanting to say for 20 years. I can't help you because you failed to include your name and address. If it appears on your envelope you are out of luck because the envelopes are discarded when my mail is opened.

Also, when I request something, I always enclose a stamped, addressed envelope for a reply. I feel that since I am asking for a favor, the least I can do is to provide the postage.

This month I have had approximately 2,000 requests for information about the "Salvation Army Missing Persons Bureau." "Fat Fannie Panty Hose." "Ten Commandments for Husbands and Wives" and the usual letters from students asking me to help write their term papers. All expect me to fulfill their requests and pay the postage as well!

So, dear readers, if you want a favor, the least you can do is include a stamped, addressed envelope.

DEAR ABBY: I knowingly broke the law by failing to file or pay my income tax. Knowing that I could be caught is driving me crazy. I'm even afraid to call the IRS out of fear that any questions will give me away.

Please, Abby, if there is any way I can pay now without going through a court proceeding and possible sentence, tell me about it. This is constantly on my mind and is becoming too much of a mental burden to bear.

ANXIOUSLY WAITING YOUR REPLY

DEAR ABBY: Write to the IRS and "fess up". I understand that those who voluntarily admit to breaking the law are dealt with more leniently than those who are caught.

DEAR ABBY: A friend of mine sent for your booklet on "What Teenagers Want To Know," and he said it was the greatest. I want one, too, but it says in the paper to send $1 plus a long, 24 cent stamped envelope. Please tell me how long a long envelope is?

FRANCIS C.

DEAR FRANCIS: Nine inches long.

Find trust wholesome

STORRS, Conn. (AP) — People who trust others are usually happier and more honest, says a University of Connecticut psychology professor.

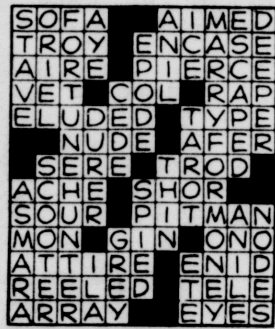

"The high truster is less likely to be unhappy, conflicted, or maladjusted. He is liked more and sought out as a friend more often," says Julian Rotter, who has compiled the results of 14 years of research on trust and gullibility.

On the other hand, as a group, people who do not tend to trust others show a greater tendency to shoplifting and cheating as well as an uncomfortable feeling that other people don't trust them, he says.

David M. Robinson, 10600 Ohio 729-NW, suffered neck and shoulder injuries and was treated and released from the hospital's emergency room. He was one of two passengers in the car.

The heavy thunderstorms which swept Ohio Tuesday failed to produce the rain needed by the state's parched land. While some showers could reappear in the northwest today, they are not expected to bring much rain.

Locally heavy rain, hail up to one inch in diameter and strong gusty winds battered sections of Lorain, Huron, Richland, Ashland and Knox Counties Tuesday. Thunderstorms spread northeast out of the state shortly after midnight.

Another cold front from Lake Superior across northern Minnesota today was to drop rapidly southeastward across the Great Lakes today, moving across Ohio tonight.

Controlling board OKs park purchases

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Purchase of the final acreage for the new Great Seal State Park will be completed as a result of action Tuesday by the Controlling Board.

It authorized the natural resources department to follow through with previously negotiated agreements for purchase of five tracts totaling nearly 200 acres.

The largest is for 56.4 acres currently owned John D. and Emily B. Davis, for which the state will pay $100,500.

Catherine Frey will receive $86,000 for another 85.6 acres at the park site near Chillicothe in Ross County.

The new park encompasses rolling farmlands which inspired the design of the Great Seal of Ohio.

In other business, at a routine meeting, the board authorized release of $325,892 to Ohio State University for the second phase of its energy conservation project.

More than $11.2 million was released to Northeast Ohio College of Medicine to enter into agreements with area hospitals for ambulatory teaching facilities.

The release, along with a similar amount for Wright State University near Dayton, was recently authorized by legislation under which the state's two newest medical schools will not have to build teaching hospitals of their own.

Ohio's lottery commission was authorized to spend $870,000 on a new instant lottery system from Mathematica, Inc., while the mental health and mental retardation department received authority to spend $6.1 million for 17 community mental retardation facilities at various locations around the state.

In other action, the board approved purchase, without competitive bidding, of a 1977, four-door Ford LTD by state Treasurer Gertrude W. Donahey. The cost was listed at $6,919—comparable to new car purchases authorized a month ago by two other state officials.

Museum opening set

Preparations have been completed by the Fayette County Historical Society's board of directors for the opening of the museum this summer.

Kenneth Craig, society president, said that due to the generosity of several local residents, carpeting has been purchased for the halls and stairway.

The museum will be opened on Sunday, June 5 from 2 until 5 p.m.

Admission to the museum is $1 for adults and 25 cents for children.

Members of the board of directors will serve as guides for museum tours and entertainment will be provided.

Craig said historical society members may renew memberships at this time. The memberships are priced at $2 per person and the card entitles the person to free admission and other benefits for the 1977-1978 year.

Integration seen costly

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Public school desegregation will cost up to $21 million and could involve busing nearly 40,000 students, board of education officials said Tuesday.

Interim school superintendent Joseph L. Davis recommended that the plan be carried out in three phases, over two years because of the high cost and complicated arrangements.

Some 17,000 to 18,000 elementary school pupils would be bused first, beginning in the fall, according to a tentative schedule released Tuesday after Davis met privately with the board of education for four hours and 30 minutes.

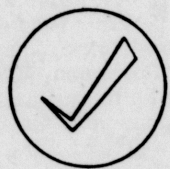

Busing would follow in September 1978 for 11,000 junior high school students and 9,000 senior high students the next fall.

Flavor and flair brighten basics

Good cooking leaves off and great food begins when we discover our own culinary style... a style that doesn't abandon the money mainstay dishes we grew up with, but improves on them.

Brighten up such basics as stews, pot pies and pasta dishes with something as simple as an interesting garnish, condiment, flavor or surprise ingredient.

We've done it with two economical favorites: fried chicken and baked macaroni and cheese. Who doesn't love them, even in their plainest forms? But add something exciting to a traditional recipe and you've got a masterful dish.

Chopped fresh onion, green pepper and tomato bring vitality and texture to our Bright Macaroni and Cheese. Flavor comes alive with dry mustard and Tabasco pepper sauce. Tabasco brings its distinctive warmth and piquancy to this dish and helps to blend the fresh, garden-y vegetable flavors with that of the mellow, rich cheese.

Hot and Crispy Fried Chicken is marinated in a pungent lemon juice and Tabasco blend, then coated with a cornmeal-Parmesan mixture. The spicy marinade flavors both the meat and the coating, making a fried chicken with punch.

These brightened basics have just the right amount of flavor impact to please a palate that enjoys subtly spiced foods. Additional drops of Tabasco, added at the table, peaks the zippiness to the dinner's satisfaction.

BRIGHT MACARONI AND CHEESE

- 2 cups elbow macaroni
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 cup chopped onion
- 1/2 cup chopped green pepper
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 2 cups milk
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 3/4 teaspoon dry mustard
- 1/4 teaspoon Tabasco pepper sauce
- 2 cups (8 ounces) shredded sharp Cheddar cheese
- 1 tomato, peeled, seeded and chopped

Cook macaroni according to package directions; drain. In medium saucepan melt butter. Add onion and green pepper; cook until tender. Blend in flour. Gradually stir in milk. Add salt, dry mustard and Tabasco. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and comes to a boil. Add cheese and stir until melted. Remove from heat. Stir in tomato and macaroni. Turn into greased 1 1/2-to-2-quart baking dish. Bake in 350 degree F. oven 20 to 25 minutes.

YIELD: 4 to 6 servings.

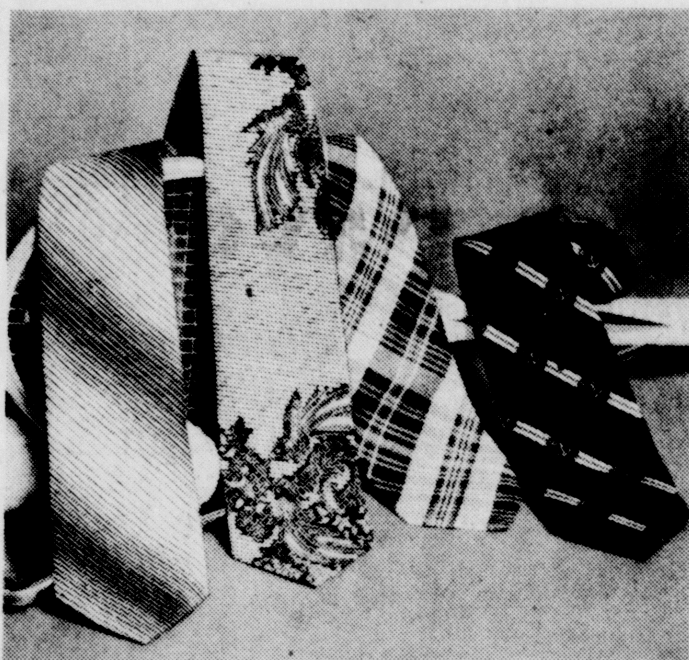

HOT AND CRISPY FRIED CHICKEN

- 1 broiler-fryer chicken (3 pounds), cut in serving pieces
- 1/2 cup lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon Tabasco pepper sauce
- 1-3rd cup flour
- 1-3rd cup cornmeal
- 2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon grated lemon rind
- 1/4 teaspoon dried leaf basil
- 1/4 teaspoon dried leaf oregano
- 1 cup salad oil

Marinate chicken pieces for 1 hour in mixture of lemon juice and Tabasco. In shallow dish mix flour, cornmeal, Parmesan cheese, salt, lemon rind, basil and oregano. In large skillet heat oil to 350 degrees F. Coat chicken on both sides with flour mixture and place skin side down in oil. Cook 15 minutes on one side and 15 minutes on the other side, or until fork-tender. Drain well on absorbent paper. Serve with additional Tabasco.

YIELD: 4 servings.

Marriage announced

Mary K. Scott and Glenn K. Pettit were united in marriage Friday, May 27, in the Church of God in Jellico, Tenn., by the Rev. Robert Wilson.

After a trip through Tennessee and to Cumberland Falls, Ky., they will reside in Washington C.H.

Charles Dickens, commenting adversely on his visit to Upper Sandusky in 1842, wrote that he and his wife "spent a troubled night in a large ghostly room with doors that lacked fastening, both opening on the wild country whenever the wind blew." —AP

WAYNE FASHIONAIRES

The meeting of the Wayne Fashionaires 4-H Club was called to order by President Suzanne Sicker. Julie Shepard read the minutes, and Lisa Cremeans gave the treasurer's report. Money making projects for the Camp Clifton Fund were discussed. It was decided to have a car wash sometime after the fair.

The date for going to King's Island was changed from June 14 to June 15, due to an advisor's conflict in schedule. The date of June 26 was suggested for a pool party at Bobbie Lamb's.

Refreshments were served by Bobbie Lamb and Jenny Jordan. The next meeting will be at Wayne Hall on June 9, when Susan and Nancy Alkire will have refreshments.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — After a 12-year absence, Lee Van Cleef, the lean, hard-eyed Old West gunsle of "High Noon" and later Clint Eastwood's "For a Few Dollars More," is returning to television.

Irony attends his return. He just finished playing a modern hit man in a movie filmed in Spain. Now, he'll play a modern U.S. marshal guarding an ex-hit man who is testifying against a syndicate boss.

Van Cleef's show, airing Sunday on NBC, is a series pilot called "No Where To Hide." He plays Ike Scanlan, protector of an informant to whom the mob wishes to render a .357 Magnum salute.

It's a strange role for the man who, because of some 60 movies and 150 TV shows, is well-known as one of acting's most sinister villains. It's even stranger to find the villain a funny, easy-going character.

Interviewed at his tree-lined home in suburban Tarzana, he popped open a can of beer for his visitor, lit a cigarette and then denied that Sunday's show is the first time he's represented the forces of decency.

"Naw, not really," chortled the 51-year-old native of Somerville, N.J., who started acting in the early 1950s in the road company of "Mister Roberts," which led to his big film break in "High Noon."

"Back in the Fifties I did a couple of good guys," he insisted. After thinking hard, he cited a "Medic" episode where he played a doctor.

But Van Cleef, who at home does such unvillainous things as paint, play guitar and sing — surprisingly well — in the Johnny Cash manner, admits his Bad Guy image does cause him woe at times.

When asked if, while taking the waters in a bar ...

"Do guys come up and say, 'Are you as tough as you play in the movies?'" he said, posing the question in a low, tough-guy voice. He sighed and looked at his knuckles.

"I'm counting a couple busted hands out of that." Then the actor, who at 6 feet 2 and 200 pounds appears fit enough to hunt bears with a toothpick, started laughing.

"The last one I had was in a bar down on Sunset Boulevard and a Texan about 6 feet 5 was pullin' that jazz. I knew what was happening, so I accidentally knocked my change off the bar.

"Then I went down to pick it up, came up and 'Boom!' Almost tore his head off. So they carried him out the back and I walked out the front, adios."

Grim, tragic scene marks fire morgue

FORT THOMAS, Ky. (AP) — Salvation Army Maj. Kenneth Lance has seen few happy endings the past few days.

"A mother and a father came looking for a son—and found him and his sweetheart. They had to call her family," recalls Lance, whose parish has become the dead and grieving.

"This morning a woman went up to Beverly Hills still hoping, and found the family car," he said.

"It goes on and on...It's endless, you know."

"A father looking down at a son and a wife, with two little children at home, asked me: 'What do I tell them?'"

Lance waits at the red brick armory, the temporary mortuary for those 158 persons who were killed in Saturday night's fire at the Beverly Hills Supper Club in nearby Southgate, Ky.

"Everyone who comes here is looking for death," Lance said.

There was a man who came early Sunday seeking both parents and found his father. His mother lived. That passed for a triumph at the armory which has served for over 80 years as an induction center for area military servicemen.

Now, sheet-shrouded bodies line the floor marked as a basketball court.

Their ranks have shrunk since Sunday when they were first brought from the still-smoldering rubble.

"There was a young man, 35 years old," recalled Father Thomas Finn. "We found his pregnant wife on the floor in the armory. Intermittently, he cried, screamed, and was silent. He didn't say anything for an hour. He's the one I have been thinking of."

Psychologists and psychiatrists wait nearby.

"We were sitting here about 10 o'clock Sunday night when a boy came in and asked if he could use the phone. He ran out screaming. For at least an hour out in the parking lot, the psychologists tried to reach him."

"There was a case of two women with the same names," he continued.

GETS AWARD — Jess W. (Bill) Matson, an agent with the Western and Southern Life Insurance Co. in Washington C.H., has returned from a company convention in New Orleans, La., where he was awarded with a President's Club pin for sales volume. He ranked among the top two per cent of more than 6,000 agents. Matson, now in his second year with the company, and his wife, Cheri, reside at 2870 Main St. NW.

Kissinger eyes Columbia offer

NEW YORK (AP) — An aide to Henry Kissinger says the former Secretary of State hasn't decided if he'll teach at Columbia University.

"He still hasn't made up his mind whether to accept the Columbia offer," the aide said Tuesday.

A spokesman at the university said the offer of an endowed chair in political science was still open to Kissinger, and added, "The next piece of news on this is expected from Kissinger's office."

The New York Times said in its Tuesday editions that Kissinger might turn the offer down out of sensitivity to criticism of the offer and because other commitments in Washington would make the position inconvenient.

Farmers still need moisture for crops

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Here is the agriculture weather advisory for Ohio provided by the National Weather Service:

The frontal system that crossed Ohio Tuesday was east of the state today. Cooler and drier westerly winds were providing a welcome breath of fresh air as it flowed across the state.

Some light rain showers may develop tonight. Then a high pressure system is expected to continue to provide cooler conditions through Friday morning.

Another front is expected to give the state a chance for shower activity Saturday and Sunday.

Field Operations — Showers were scattered Tuesday and amounts of rainfall were light over much of the state. Soils will continue to be dry and wetting through tonight will not add significant moisture. However, the temperatures will be lower through Friday and the evaporation rates will decrease, giving plants a little relief from the hot and dry conditions which have placed much stress on them the past two weeks.

Haying — Drying will be improving by Thursday. But the next chance for rain is Saturday. Cutting today can help make sure that hay will be dried for baling or stacking on Friday. If cut today, hay conditioning is necessary to make harvest moisture by Friday.

Spraying — The westerly winds will continue to be rather brisk today and spraying conditions will be poor due to the drifting caused by the wind. As high pressure approaches, winds will be decreasing on Thursday morning. Friday morning will offer a period with dry conditions and light winds.

Crop response — Dryness will continue to be the major factor limiting growth of crops. However where some moisture was received the response of crops will be good the next few days. Cooler conditions and moisture will especially be beneficial to grasses. Pastures may show a slight improvement in the shower areas. Recently planted seeds will germinate and emerge at a fast pace in the central and south where rainfall wetted the top two inches. Cool conditions in the extreme north will cool soils a few degrees and development will be slowed for about two days. Then, warmer weather will speed growth where moisture is not limited.

Farrah bows out of TV series

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Charlie's Angels" begins production Wednesday for its second season, but Farrah Fawcett-Majors won't be in the episode.

The role written for Miss Fawcett-Majors will be played by Cheryl Ladd, who was signed last week to play her younger sister.

Miss Fawcett-Majors, 30, who had played Jill Munroe in the hit ABC series, told the producer last March she would not return. She said she planned to pursue a career in motion pictures.

She said she hadn't signed a contract, but the producer sued, saying that accepting its terms and compensation amounted to the same thing.

Bargaining bill clears obstacle

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A long-debated and once-vetoed bill giving Ohio's public employees the right to bargain collectively—and to strike in support of their demands—has cleared its first obstacle in the legislature.

It was recommended for passage Tuesday night by a subcommittee of the Senate Commerce and Labor Committee. Majority Democrats, pushing the legislation, say it should clear the full committee this week and come up for a Senate floor vote the week of June 5.

The subcommittee vote was 2-1, with the dissent coming from Sen. Thomas A. Van Meter, R-19 Ashland, who offered 19 amendments to the voluminous bill but succeeded in making only one minor change. The other two subcommittee members were Democrats.

Sen. Harry Meshel, D-33 Youngstown, chief sponsor of the legislation, offered 29 Democratic amendments, all of which were adopted. However, they dealt mainly with procedural matters, and all the bill's major provisions were left intact.

Meshel's bill, representing a top priority of majority Democrats in both houses, repeals the embattled Ferguson Act—prohibiting strikes by public employees.

It provides in law for the first time for Ohio's more than 510,000 public employees to bargaining collectively with state and local government employers, and allows limited strikes.

Gov. James A. Rhodes, a Republican, vetoed a similar bill in September 1975 after legislative Democrats, then lacking the votes to override vetoes, enacted it. They now have the votes to pass laws over the governor's objections.

Some of the Van Meter amendments would have deleted a provision under which firemen and police would be forced to submit disputes to binding arbitration, as the only alternative to a strike, and removed school administrators from groups authorized to form collective bargaining units.

Van Meter also sought to require that the public be called upon as a last result to settle local bargaining disputes at the ballot box, after reviewing all issues. The same amendment would have sent disputes with statewide implication to the legislature, with a requirement that they be resolved in 30 days.

The only amendment Van Meter had approved prohibits an unfair labor practice the picketing of a public official's private residence or place of private outside employment, to boost strikers' demands for settlements.

Low river level hampers shipping

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Runaway barges are making cowboys out of towboat captains on the below-normal Mississippi River these days.

The captains are spending much of their time corralling barges that have broken from their tows because of low water in the channel.

"They (barges) are all over the river," said a spokesman for the Coast Guard.

Lt. John Calhoun, deputy group commander for the Coast Guard's lower Mississippi River group, said his office averages about four or five grounding reports a day.

"There are probably a lot more who have only become stuck for short periods of time and have not reported anything to us," Calhoun said.

A lack of rain in the Upper Mississippi and Ohio River valleys — rains that feed the Mississippi — has caused the river at Memphis to be 15 feet lower than normal for this time of year, he said.

Towboats and barges have been striking the river bottom more frequently, causing barges to break away and posing a serious threat to river navigation.

Calhoun said some places along the channel are worse than others. A particularly bad spot is about five miles north of Memphis where the Loosahatchie River joins the Mississippi.

A barge loaded with coal broke away from the towboat Ellen Stone at that spot Wednesday. It was not caught until it was about a mile upstream from the Hernando DeSoto Bridge at Memphis.

Early Sunday morning, four barges loaded with fuel got away from the towboat Nelson M. Broadfoot near the same spot. Several towboats chased them for several minutes before pushing them aground.

Both breakaways caused traffic on the bridge to be halted for as long as 20 minutes.

Both Calhoun and Co. Robert Lockridge, Memphis District commander for the Engineers, said it is unlikely a barge could seriously damage the bridge if it crashed into it. But they said the breakaway fuel barges could have caught fire or polluted the river had any fuel spilled out of them.

Calhoun said four barges ran aground at the same spot again Sunday night.

Everyone commended

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — The South Carolina House has unanimously approved a resolution commending everybody who hasn't been commended yet.

The measure won unanimous approval last week in the Senate and passed the House Tuesday.

It says the legislature wants to commend and congratulate "all persons, male and female, young and old, tall and short, fat and skinny, who have performed any act or deed during the past five months worthy of such commendations ..."

The resolution's author, Sen. Thomas E. Smith, D-Florence, said he introduced it because "I just didn't want anyone left out."

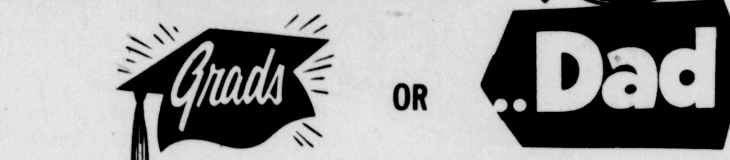

Smith has been among legislators who have criticized the introduction of congratulatory resolutions as a waste of time.

Spark arresters to be required

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Spark arresters to prevent track-side brush fires would be required on diesel locomotives operating on Ohio rails by July 1, 1979, under legislation off to a fast start in the General Assembly.

House Minority Leader Charles F. Kurfess, R-83 Perrysburg, won 95-0 approval for his bill Tuesday in the House. It now goes to the Senate.

Offense poses difficult problem for lawmen

Burglary problem sparks homeowner awareness

EDITOR'S NOTE: Suburban residents who used to leave their homes unlocked are installing elaborate burglar alarm systems. City dwellers bar their windows and bolt their doors. Here, in the first of a three-part series, is a look at the problem of burglary.

By LOUISE COOK

Associated Press Writer

In little more than the time it takes you to read this sentence, a burglar will have broken into someone's home or business.

It may have been yours. The Federal Bureau of Statistics defines burglary as "the unlawful entry of a structure to commit a felony or theft. The use of force to gain entry is not required."

According to the bureau, "prevention and detection of the burglary offense poses a most difficult problem to law enforcement. Volume alone is an overriding factor."

The FBI says there were some 3.25 million burglaries in 1975, the latest year for which figures are available. That works out to one burglary every 10 seconds and represents an increase of about 7 per cent from 1974.

Residential burglaries accounted for almost two-thirds of the total in 1975. Over half of them occurred during the day. Losses from these burglaries amounted to $925 million, up 21 per cent from 1974, compared to an increase of only 5 per cent in losses from nonresidential burglaries.

The average dollar loss per residential burglary was over $440.

Could you afford that kind of loss? If not, what have you done to stop it? How well is your house protected? How easy would it be for someone to break in?

A growing number of Americans are asking themselves those questions. And their answers add up to a boom for manufacturers and sellers of equipment to protect homes, not only against crime, but also against such natural disasters as fire.

A spokesman for the National Burglar and Fire Alarm Association said there are no over-all statistics on sales of alarm systems. But she said that the market for consumer alarms — to detect burglary and fire in homes and automobiles — is the fastest growing segment of the business.

The rate of growth in consumer alarms has been 15 to 20 per cent annually for the past several years, she said, and the boom is expected to continue since the market remains far from saturated.

The association spokesman estimated that only 1 per cent of all residences in America are equipped with burglar alarms. Another 1 per cent have some sort of fire alarm system, she said.

Part of the reason for the increase in security systems has been the rise in burglary. Another important factor, however, is that costs have started to decline. "Previously, only the very, very rich could afford an elaborate security system," she said. "But technology has improved tremendously in the past five years, bringing down costs."

Burglar alarm systems now cost from $300 to $1,500, depending on the type of residence and the kind of protection you want. Some systems also involve payment of a monthly fee for security forces.

A recent study by Security World Publishing Co. of manufacturers of security and fire systems showed that sales of all types of protection services, residential and commercial, totalled just over $2 billion last year, up from a little more than $1.5 billion the year before. This year's sales are expected to reach almost $3 billion, the Security World survey showed.

When it comes to fire alarm systems, the biggest growth has been in smoke detectors, available for as little as $30 to $50. Many communities now require installation of detectors in new buildings.

The National Fire Prevention and Control Administration of the Commerce Department says that manufacturers estimated 1976 sales of smoke detectors at $87 million and the agency predicts that sales will reach the $200 million mark by 1980.

Before you consider any sort of security system, you should look at your home to check existing construction for possible areas of improvement.

The National Bureau of Standards says that one of the most common ways a burglar enters a house is by breaking the strike out of the door frame. The strike is the metal plate attached to the side of the door frame where the bolt latches to the door.

If the screws used to attach the strike to the frame are too short, the plate is easy to detach. The Bureau of Standards suggests screws that are long enough to go all the way through the frame and into the wall studs, combined with a longer-than-normal strike. An eight-inch strike plate with three-inch screws — available most places for well under $10 — should be sufficient.

Glass around doors also is a potential danger spot, since burglars can break through, reach in and open the door from the inside. If your home has panes of glass that are large enough to reach through and are located within 40 inches of the door knob or lock, cover the area with protective grillwork or replace the glass with a burglar-resistant material. Among materials to look for are tempered glass, laminated glass, acrylic plastic and polycarbonate plastic.

Jalousie doors, with glass slats that angle out, are another problem, since it is often possible to manipulate the knob or crank that operates the doors from outside. Remove the knob or lever when it is not in use or drill a small hole through the housing and shaft of the knob and insert a pin through the hole to prevent the crank from being turned.

The Bureau of Standards says it is impossible to define the "most secure" door because of the variety of materials and workmanship involved. Generally, however, a wood door of solid core construction, 1 3/4 inches thick, should offer adequate protection. Metal doors of the type often used in apartment houses are even better.

Leukemia struggle won by youth, 7

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Five years ago, it might have been a medical miracle. But when Michael Morelock, 7, stops taking drugs after three and a half years of fighting leukemia, it will be almost a typical case.

"This disease used to be universally fatal," said Dr. Arthur R. Ablin of the children's cancer program at University of California-San Francisco Medical Center. "Life expectancy after diagnosis used to be 10 weeks."

But now 62 per cent of the children found to have leukemia are still alive five years after the diagnosis, and doctors expect most to live far longer.

The statistics are from the National Cancer Institute's Children's Cancer Study Group, of which UCSF is a part. Ablin announced on Tuesday a program to share information about the group's successful treatment methods with a number of other hospitals in Northern California.

The study group, made up of 25 teaching hospitals nationwide, compiles statistics each year on some 2,100 children with cancer. Information about the children — the course of their disease and their response to treatment — goes into a huge data bank, which is constantly updating statistics about which kinds of treatments are working best.

"If you have only 50 new cases of cancer each year, it takes years to answer these questions about which treatments are working and what are their side effects," Ablin said. But with more than 400 new cases a year in the data bank, he said, doctors are developing a set of statistics that can predict more reliably which treatments will be most effective.

Michael hasn't been sick with leukemia since the episode that led to its diagnosis when he was four years old. But doctors are cautious about saying he is cured. They say only that the disease has been in continuous remission for three and a half years.

What happens to Michael when he goes off drug therapy July 5 will be fed into the data bank to provide more information for the next "generation" of leukemia patients.

Michael will return to the hospital every three months for blood counts and bone marrow tests. Meanwhile, he'll be going to school.

Measure banishes liquor warnings

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Restaurants and taverns serving beer and liquor would no longer be forced to display signs warning of 18 and 21 age requirements under a bill halfway through the legislative mill.

State senators approved the measure 26-3 Tuesday and sent it to the House.

Permit-holders who failed to post the minimum-age-for-service signs would not be subject to criminal penalties or administrative action by the Department of Liquor Control, according to the bill, sponsored by Sen. Thomas E. Carney, D-32 Girard.

Small town mourns loss of 5 friends

BRIGHT, Ind. (AP) — The 200 residents of this Dearborn County community are mourning the loss of five friends and associates in the savage fire at the Beverly Hills Supper Club.

All five victims were active in the civic life of Bright. The two men were members of the volunteer fire department, and the three women members of its auxiliary.

They were Robert Earl Sykes, 29; his wife, Lora Jane, 29; Gary Lee Littrell, 29; his wife, Sharon, 26, and Rosalie Schuman, 33.

Mrs. Schuman's husband, Ron, 32, suffered serious burns and smoke inhalation in Saturday night's disaster. He also is a volunteer fireman in Bright.

The three couples went to the Beverly Hills for an evening of dining and entertainment.

Each couple had two children. "We are a community that takes care of its own. We'll do the best we can," Mrs. Paul Johnson said Tuesday.

Her husband said, "The town is in a state of shock. We feel so helpless."

Verna Dunning said, "We were all close friends. We weren't just acquaintances in the same organization. We were all friends."

Mike Renck, owner of one of Bright's two groceries, said, "Things just aren't moving very fast around here. It's not easy for people to smile or be happy."

Guy Lombardo sets 50th anniversary

PORT STANLEY, Canada (AP) — Guy Lombardo and his Royal Canadians celebrate their golden anniversary Saturday at an Ontario club only a stone's throw from the place the orchestra first played in 1927.

Lombardo began his career here at Hopkin's Casino. The group will play at the Stork Club, only 2,000 feet from where the casino stood.

Over 1 million black Americans served in the Armed Forces during World War II. This was three times as many as had served during World War I.

Swiss 'tour' taken by Rotary members

Members of the Washington C.H. Rotary Club were treated to a guided "tour" of Switzerland during their regular weekly luncheon meeting Tuesday in the Country Club.

The "tour" was accomplished through a slide presentation provided by Jean Winiger, this year's American Field Service foreign exchange student at Washington Senior High School.

Winiger's slide presentation depicted the four states in which Switzerland is divided. A different language is spoken in each of the four states.

Besides the beautiful slides of the Swiss Alps scenery, the presentation included pictures of the cheese and watchmaking factories. Wine is also an important product in Switzerland and the country produces approximately 32 million gallons per year, the foreign exchange student said.

Also included were slides of Zurich, the commercial and industrial capital, and Geneva, the site of various peace conferences and other international meetings.

Winiger, who has been making his home with the John Rhoads family, 912 Clinton Ave., said the land is relatively poor in Switzerland because of the abundance of mountains. He said water is the nation's chief natural resource.

Railroads, according to the Swiss student, are important in Switzerland. Since gasoline is priced at $2 per gallon in the country, he said the citizens depend heavily upon railroads for public transportation.

The meeting was conducted by club president Dr. George H. Pommert and the program was arranged by William Pool.

Visiting Rotarians were Dr. Walter

U.S. Tennis Open to move away from Forest Hills

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
A precious piece of Americana will die and be buried in concrete when the U.S. Open Tennis Championships move, as planned, from picturesque Forest Hills next year to Flushing Meadow.

Tradition takes another blow on the chin. The big money operators — the wheelers and dealers, the slaves of inevitable progress and commercialism — win again.

It will still be the Open, the tennis championship of the United States, but it can never be the same. The ghosts of Big Bill Tilden, Helen Wills Moody, Fred Perry, France's Four Musketeers, Don Budge and Jack Kramer will continue to flit around the old Tudor club house at the West Side Tennis Club.

W.E. "Slew" Hester, Jr., new president of the U.S. Tennis Association, paints a grandiose picture — 32 hard-surface courts, 1,875 parking spaces, a new stadium seating 21,000 and departure from West Side's stuffy country club atmosphere.

To most of us longtime tennis buffs, it leaves us cold. It looms as just another $5 million slab on concrete partitioned by steel wire and nets.

The flavor is gone. No amount of money, no plethora of artificially surfaced asphalt courts can buy what Forest Hills — even with all its snobbery and lack of elbow room — has provided over the last 63 years.

Vast tennis complexes are popping up all over the place — from California to Boston to Miami — with courts stretching as far as the human eye can see. Private promoters have pumped millions into worldwide tour tournaments — the Grand Prix, WCT, Virginia Slims, WTT, you name it.

Yet none has been able to eclipse in interest and exposure those old stand-bys of the game's primitive years — Wimbledon, Forest Hills, Roland Garros in Paris and Kooyong in Melbourne.

Wimbledon, the Mother Queen of all tennis tournaments, 100 years old this year, has, thank goodness, stoutly resisted change. Its grass continues green and lush. Old ladies still sit on the lawn and eat strawberries and cream. The Queen, dukes and princesses rarely miss a day in the Royal Box.

Stuffy? Sure. But there still is a majesty about the event that can be found in few other sports spectacles. Imagine moving the All-England Championships to Trafalgar Square or Blackpool.

To try to keep pace with progress, players and the USTA forced the West Side Club to rip out center court grass and convert to pedestrian clay two years ago. Some of the heart was taken out of the tournament right there. The Open became no different than the National Clay Courts.

If we can save Grand Central Station from extinction, why not Forest Hills?

INDY FRONT-RUNNER UNTIL.... — Gordon Johncock in car No. 20 was running smoothly in first place of the Indianapolis 500 last Sunday until the sweltering heat got to his engine and cost him the race. Johncock won a rain-shortened race once before but has never gone the 500 miles to a win. Record-Herald staff photographer Tim Carson was at the race and provided today's picture of Johncock and also yesterday's photo of the winner, A.J. Foyt.

Minnesota beats Orioles, 8-3

Twins continue winning ways

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
It just took a little time — and 12 Minnesota hits — for Pete Redfern to gain his second victory of the season.

"Redfern has worked very hard trying to get his normal delivery," said Minnesota Manager Gene Mauch after his American League West Division-leading Twins defeated the Baltimore Orioles, leaders in the East, 8-3 Tuesday night.

"I just wanted to throw strikes," Redfern said. "It's been hard getting my rhythm back, but I had it against Baltimore and I just hope I'll be able to pitch like that every time out."

Redfern, who won his first game in more than seven weeks, needed relief help in the ninth inning. But it was the Minnesota hitters who gave him the support.

Six Minnesota players drove in runs. The other two runs scored on an error.

In other AL games, Detroit defeated Oakland 5-2, California nipped Cleveland 7-6 in 10 innings and Boston downed the New York Yankees 5-1.

The Twins defeated their long-time nemesis Rudy May, 6-5, chasing the left-hander with a four-run sixth inning that gave Redfern a 7-1 cushion. May entered the game with a 13-7 lifetime record against the Twins, including a shutout over them last Friday.

Tigers 5, A's 2

Eighth-inning home runs by Mickey Stanley and Milt May powered Detroit over Oakland and snapped the Tigers' six-game losing streak.

A two-run seventh-inning rally against loser Vida Blue, 3-6, put Detroit ahead 3-1.

Opening lead - six of hearts.

There are certain principles of defensive play that everyone should be familiar with. Applying them steadily will certainly be helpful in the great majority of deals, but a defender should always feel free to abandon a rule when it is obvious that adhering to it will do him more harm than good.

Here is a typical case where West leads the six of hearts against three notrump. Declarer plays the ten from dummy, and if East follows the usual rule he covers the ten with the jack. East does not usually play the ace in this situation because it gives declarer two heart tricks, while playing the jack on the ten holds declarer to one heart trick.

But if East studies the dummy carefully, he realizes that he cannot afford to play the jack of hearts in the present case because South will then surely make the contract. East can count nine tricks for declarer, consisting of the king of hearts, six diamond tricks and at least two club tricks.

East therefore wins the heart lead with the ace and returns a low spade, hoping to find a weak spot in declarer's armor. As it happens, this play proves to be eminently successful. West wins South's ten with the jack, returns a low spade to East's ace, and back comes another spade to put the contract down one.

Of course, East is lucky to find West with a spade holding that allows the defense to cash, four spade tricks. However, this is a case of virtue being properly rewarded, and it is not altogether a matter of luck. East can see that there is no chance of stopping the contract by playing the jack of hearts at trick one, but that there is some chance of stopping the contract by playing the ace. Accordingly, East adjusts his play to cater to the chance.

Medical Truths--Medical Fiction

We've all been brought up on catch phrases of medical truths and medical fiction. Many fads and superstitions have been handed down for centuries. Some of these have amazing scientific virtues. Many drugs used in aboriginal tribes have been subsequently found to have medical validity.

Digitalis used for heart disease, rauwolfia for high blood pressure and heparin, a blood-thinner taken from leeches, were found to be effective even though the scientific reason was not explained for many years.

Do some readers still believe that if you swallow a fruit pit you will develop appendicitis? Not true. Does "a lean horse win a long race"? True. Obesity is an enemy of longevity. Is the birth mark on a newborn baby's face caused by the mother's fright during pregnancy? No, this is an inherited myth. Is gout a rich man's disease? Not true. Gout has no special respect for social or economic status.

"My joints ache. I know it's going to rain tomorrow." There may not be scientific proof of this, but many people can anticipate bad weather by changes in the aches and pains in their joints.

Does eating sweets cause diabetes? No. Diabetes is a disorder of the hormone, insulin, manufactured in the pancreas. The control of sweets is of importance after diabetes has been diagnosed and a dietary regime is established. "My blood is thin. I need a good tonic." "Tired, thin, worn blood" is not a medical diagnosis. The presence of anemia can be established only by careful blood studies. Once the type of anemia is established, specialized treatment is started by the doctor.

Is beefsteak good treatment for a black eye? True, but wet compresses do the very same thing and they're lots cheaper.

"Anything greasy is best for first-aid treatment for burns." False. The best first-aid treatment for ordinary household burns is the immediate application of cold water. Covering a severe burn with grease makes it difficult if a doctor must get to the burn later for treatment.

"It's important to have a bowel movement every day." False. There are normal variations in time for all people. Some do not move their bowels more than once in three days. This is still normal. Far too many people become compulsive about daily bowel movements. This leads them to resort to harsh laxatives and enemas. Six to eight glasses of water daily (with the doctor's permission) can be an ideal laxative.

'Sunset legislation' promoted

By TOMDIEMER
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The jury is still out, but a former member of the Governor's Task Force on Commission Review thinks citizens, through their legislators, can control the growth of state government bureaucracy.

The solution, according to Charles A. Calhoun, is "sunset legislation," a concept already adopted in some form by 13 states and under serious consideration in the Ohio General Assembly.

"The sun sets on those programs which do not meet whatever standards the legislative branch establishes as the basis for their continuation," explains Calhoun, executive director of the Ohio Public Expenditures Council.

"Let's not kid ourselves," Calhoun hastens to add. "Sunset legislation will be highly controversial, time consuming and even costly because additional staff personnel will be needed to serve the Joint Review Committee."

A house-approved bill, set for a first hearing today in the Senate Judiciary Committee, has already underscored those points.

Although the legislation, sponsored by Rep. A.G. Lancione, D-99 Bellaire, got through a House rollcall with only three negative votes, it was soundly criticized for not going far enough.

Calhoun, head of an independent spending watchdog organization, contends the bill "takes a serious bipartisan step toward setting up an orderly schedule for review of Ohio's boards, agencies and commissions" — 246 to be exact.

"Also," Calhoun noted, "it can be expected that the Ohio Senate will add further refinements to the legislation before it is sent to Gov. James A. Rhodes."

The bill, which incorporate some recommendations of the governor's task force, would set up a House-Senate review committee to judge the worth of eligible agencies every six years.

"Every agency listed in the bill would be required to be reviewed by Dec. 31, 1984," Calhoun says, without mentioning the Orwellian irony of the date, the close of a year when one author predicted virtually every aspect of citizens' lives would be taken over by government.

The proposed review is fine as far as it goes, critics say. But unlike some sunset plans, the Lancione bill does not contain a self-destruct clause, that is, a provision calling for automatic extinction of any agency that is not renewed.

Instead, the review committee would make a recommendation for continuation, modification or abolishment of an entity. But if the recommendation asked abolishment, a separate bill would have to be passed to turn the lights out.

Rather than sunset, House Minority Leader Charles F. Kurfess, R-83 Perrysburg, compared this approach to pulling the curtain down and walking away from the window.

"The public is going to remain skeptical until it is proven to them that sunset legislation or other governmental reorganization plans can, in effect, reduce or limit the size of the bureaucracy and ultimately save tax dollars," Calhoun says.

Bulletproof legislature?

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Sergeants-at-arms would carry guns and a bulletproof shield would surround the House and Senate, under legislation offered by an irrepressible Sandusky County lawmaker.

Rep. Gene E. Damschroder, R-85 Fremont, said a lack of security at the Statehouse prompted him to introduce the measure Tuesday.

It was cosponsored by Reps. Michael Del Bane, D-56 Hubbard, and Harry C. Malott, D-87 Mt. Orab.

The bill would permit sergeants-at-arms in the House and Senate to carry concealed weapons and make arrests. A bulletproof shield would protect lawmakers "from areas around the chambers where the general public observing sessions of the Senate and House of Representatives may be located."

Damschroder said the Michigan legislature in Lansing has a similar shield.

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

I fail to see the advisability of using $30,000 of taxpayer's money to buy a little over three acres of ground for a facility for senior citizens who may get a dubious uplift from a view of a cemetery and the aroma from a sewage disposal plant.

Davidson cancels

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Singer John Davidson has canceled his appearance on The Tonight Show because of the death of his musical director in the Southgate, Ky. nightclub fire, Davidson's publicist says.

The singer has canceled all appearances and interviews until after the funeral Wednesday of Douglas George Herro, according to Monroe Friedman. Davidson had been scheduled to host The Tonight Show for Johnny Carson.

Herro, a longtime associate and friend of the singer, died in the fire Saturday at the sprawling Beverly Hills Supper Club in Southgate, one of 158 victims of the inferno.

Herro's funeral will be today at 11 a.m. at the San Fernando Mission, Friedman said. Burial will be private.

The 36-year-old entertainer, who was in his dressing room backstage when the fire broke out, returned to Los Angeles Sunday and has remained in seclusion at his Hidden Hills residence.

However, Friedman said that Davidson still plans to open Thursday at Harrah's Club in Reno.

Welfare funding urged on feds

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio House has urged Congress to assume the full load of funding the welfare and Medicaid programs.

A resolution adopted 71-24 Tuesday was an expression of legislative intent, but doesn't require any specific action by any arm of state or federal government. It was sponsored by Rep. Casey C. Jones, D-45 Toledo.
